BUS PLAN 'DEALBREAKER' IN £50M DEVELOPMENT

• A Thames Travel bus at the Orchard Centre bus stop in High Street

• Architects designs of the £50million plans for the extension to Didcot's Orchard Centre

ARGUMENTS over rerouting buses through Didcot to fit in with a £50million expansion of Didcot's Orchard Centre have been dubbed a 'dealbreaker'.

Designs for 24 shops, six restaurants, a gym and 105 parking spaces on the eastern side of Sainsbury's car park also include moving the current bus route from High Street to Station Road.

But Station Road is half residential and half pedestrianised, so the plans sparked opposition from residents about traffic and businesses about loss of footfall and space, as they currently open onto a pedestrianised square.

During Didcot Town Council's planning and development committee on May 27 the plans were recommended for refusal because of bus route plans and not enough parking, in a list of seven reasons.

Leader of Didcot Town Council, Charlie Robertson, said: "It's a dealbreaker."

He added: "Our decision was based on taking into the account the views of the people of Didcot. They came to us with their concerns and we have accepted them.

"If there was an accident caused there by this development then we would be forever held accountable."

The dispute is so complicated as it involves at least seven parties.

These are developers Hammerson, bus company Thames Travel, local authority Didcot Town Council, Oxfordshire County Council which is responsible for roads, residents, businesses, and South Oxfordshire District Council - which is spearheading the project and whose planning committee gets the final vote on whether to give permission.

South Oxfordshire District Council leader John Cotton said: "I completely understand their concerns on the bus route, there are many, many issues we need to look at."

He added: "The bus company is adamant that it's the only route for them, however, we have to balance that against the other needs of the public.

"I hope the project does not get halted, it's a tricky decision."

But Thames Travel's managing director, Phil Southall, said their preferred option is to have a bus route incorporated into the new development.

Duchess unveils two Churchill memorials

THE Duchess of Cornwall was the guest of honour at two memorial events in West Oxfordshire on Tuesday to mark the 50th anniversary of the death of Sir Winston Churchill.

Camilla unveiled a new stained glass window at St Martin's Church in Bladon, near Woodstock – where Sir Winston is buried – before opening a memorial garden inside the grounds of Blenheim Palace.

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

Hundreds of residents, dignitaries and schoolchildren from Bladon Primary School welcomed the Duchess to the church at around 11.15am.

A short service inside the church followed, before Camilla pulled the cover off the new window, which features two images of Sir Winston at the bottom.

Robert Courts, who led the committee that came up with the idea for the window, said: "Her Royal Highness very much liked the window, and we're delighted that the unveiling went so well.

"There was so much support from members of the community, and of course the wider Churchill world."

The duchess then laid flowers on Sir Winston's grave, before travelling to Blenheim Palace for the opening of the memorial garden.

There she was met by the Duke of Marlborough, his family and Nicholas Soames – grandson of Sir Winston.

In a speech, Sir Nicholas said: "Churchill was himself a keen and expert landscape gardener and would truly have loved this place."

The Duke added: "So many people have contributed to the garden and I thank them all for their hard work in achieving this goal."

Afterwards the Duchess and the Duke unveiled a bust of Sir Winston within the garden, before attending a private ceremony inside the palace.

Adrian Daffern, rector of St Martin's Church who led the services at both events, said: "The two together, the unveiling of the window and the opening of the garden, are a very fitting marker of this 50 year moment after Churchill's death."

17-year-old killed in M40 horror smash

A SEVENTEEN-YEAR-OLD driver died in a crash between Junction 7 and 6 of the M40 junction on Monday night.

The driver, from Maidenhead, was driving a black Vauxhall Corsa southbound when it left the motorway at around 7.35pm last night.

The car went down the embankment before coming to a rest in an adjacent field and the driver died at the scene.

PC Turnbull added: "I am appealing to anyone who saw the black Vauxhall Corsa before the incident, or anyone who saw a Jaguar vehicle at or near the scene to also come forward.

Anyone with information is asked to contact police on 101, quoting URN 1449 8/6.

Man hikes 500 miles to raise funds for brother

By Loughlan Campbell
loughlan@taylornewspapers.co.uk

A DIDCOT man battled through tendonitis to walk 500miles across Spain to raise money for Muscular Dystrophy UK - inspired by his brother who suffers from the disease.

Josh Davis, 25, of Mereland Road, walked an average of 20 miles a day for 25 days, following the Camino de Santiago mountain range through the south of France down to the north west Spanish city of Santiago de Compostela.

Josh, who finished his walk last Thursday, has managed to raise over £1,200 so far for the charity, which he chose after being inspired by his half-brother, Simon Davis, 25, who lives in Bristol and suffers from Muscular Dystrophy.

Josh, a trainee apprentice with Didcot's New Coronet Bingo Club, was initially joined by his boss, Laurie Carpenter and Laurie's girlfriend, Ambra Garogolo for the first week of the journey before he set off on his own.

Josh told the Guardian: "The first week was all about my legs getting used to it but eventually your body just learns to manage it."

However, Josh soon found himself in agonising pain, as he contracted tendonitis about halfway through the trip.

He said: "Every single step felt like someone stabbing me in my leg, it meant my body just gave up halfway through the day.

"I just had to take each day as it came, but I just kept thinking about the support I was receiving back at home to get me through it."

Josh said the highlight of the whole ordeal was coming back to his family and friends and realising how much money he has raised.

He added: "To raise that amount of money, just makes me want to go back and do it all over again.

"All my childhood memories of Simon are of him in a wheelchair so to raise that much money for the charity is something I'm immensely proud of."

Mr Carpenter said: "All the staff and customers are immensely proud of Josh's achievement.

"He is a fantastic young lad who is an inspiration to us all on what you can achieve if you put mind and body to it."

Dispute over bus routes central to revamp plans

• From front page

He said: "This not a case of a wicked bus company seeing only pound signs. We have a responsibility to act as the voice of bus passengers.

"Is it really too late for the developers, in the face of such common-sense, to think again and find a way of incorporating a bus link through the development?"

Mr Southall added: "We are happy to work with the developer to come up with an alternative solution that uses Station Road but the onus will be on the developers to make this work."

Thames Travel also explained driving down Hitchcock Way to Jubilee Way roundabout before travelling up Broadway would be a 'recipe for disaster' because: "Buses would end up queuing so long in the traffic jams that it would be impossible to operate a viable bus network."

The bus company estimated the Orchard Centre bus stops are used by about 300,000 passengers a year.

Russell Beresford, Hammerson's development manager, said: "The town council's concerns are being considered by the project team and we are continuing to work towards a recommendation in favour of granting planting permission."

Mr Beresford also stated Hammerson remain committed to the project and that they hope to start work on site later this year.

A decision on the planning application is due to be made next month by South Oxfordshire District Council's planning committee.

Charity drops call centres after claims elderly were harassed

By Loughlan Campbell
loughlan@taylornewspapers.co.uk

OXFAM have suspended all operations with two call centres after claims by the Mail on Sunday staff were 'harassing 98-year-old women' to donate money to the charity.

The charity, based in Cowley, confirmed they have suspended operations with Listen Ltd and Street Academy, after claims that the centres used 'high-pressure' tactics from its telephone fundraisers to target the elderly, sick and poor for donations.

The newspaper sent in an undercover reporter to train with Listen Ltd, and claims he was told to target very elderly pensioners, to harass people for money even if they list excuses, and not to delete them from the database if they complained of harassment.

Oxfam's director of fundraising, Tim Hunter, said: "Our supporters' generosity is the life-blood of our organisation and we thank the Mail on Sunday for bringing these allegations to our attention.

"However, the headline in the Mail on Sunday claiming that we target 98-year-olds is factually incorrect.

"It is against our policy to target vulnerable people."

Oxfam stated that they take the allegations very seriously, and in addition to the suspension of their operations with the call centres, they will undertake a thorough investigation into the allegations.

Mr Hunter added: "Oxfam carries out regular quality checks of fundraising calls on our behalf and insists on high standards of training and monitoring."

He continued: "The support we receive from the public is crucial to our work.

"If anyone has any complaints about the activities, I urge them to contact us."

Alistair McLean, chief executive of the Fundraising Standards Board - which regulates body for charity fundraising in the UK - said: "We are deeply concerned about the allegations that the Mail on Sunday has made."

He added: "It is critical that fundraisers treat the public with respect, openness and honesty at all times."

Dad denies killing 11-week-old son

A DAD accused of murdering his baby son in Faringdon last year has denied the charge at Oxford Crown Court.

Jordon Saxton, 21, of Wingate Close in Oxford, pleaded not guilty to killing his 11-week-old son Jayden last Friday.

Saxton was first arrested on suspicion of grievous bodily harm on November 17 after Jayden had collapsed the previous evening at a Faringdon house.

Jayden was taken by ambulance to the Great Western Hospital in Swindon before being transferred to the Bristol Royal Hospital for Children.

He died from his injuries there at 10.30pm on November 18.

A post mortem showed that Jayden had died from injuries to his head, and Saxton was charged with murder on March 10 this year.

He has been remanded in custody to appear at Oxford Crown Court on September 28 for trial.

Pooh sticks championships draw hundreds to Witney

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

• Pooh fans taking part in the championships

HUNDREDS of people gathered along the River Windrush in Witney on Sunday to compete in the World Pooh Sticks Championships.

This was the first year the championships were being held in Witney – taking place at Langel Common - having transferred from Little Wittenham last year.

The game sees Pooh fans dropping sticks over a bridge, then racing them downstream to see whose stick crosses the finish line first.

The World Pooh Sticks Championships have been held in the county for more than 30 years, and each year raises more than £3,000 for charity.

Richie Gray, one of the organisers of the event, said: "It's been mind-blowing, just because of the sheer number of people who are taking part and passing through.

"It's one of those events that seems to capture people's imaginations.

"Everyone's heard of Winnie the Pooh, and the fact that there is a real life Pooh Sticks championship, they just want to take part and see what it's all about."

As well as from across Oxfordshire, Pooh fans travelled from around the country and even from abroad to attend the championships.

One of those was Deb Hoffman, the Guinness World Record holder for the largest Winnie the Pooh collection, who flew from Wisconsin in the USA for the event.

With more than 12,000 pieces in her Pooh collection, Deb said that taking part in the championships was a lifetime's ambition.

"Ever since I found out there was a world championship Pooh Sticks competition, I've been wanting to come," she said.

"It's been amazing, I didn't know what to expect. The atmosphere has been fantastic and I think the coolest thing about it is that there's so many people here.

"I have to find a way to come back here every year because it's just been absolutely fantastic and I've got to make this part of my Pooh experience, I love it."

James Smith, 36, a quantity surveyor from Long Hanborough, was declared the Pooh Sticks world champion at the end of the event.

Oxford PSPO decision due

A CONTROVERSIAL order that could enforce limits on how long buskers can perform for in Oxford is set to be decided upon by the city council today.

The council's Executive Board will decide whether to approve the Public Spaces Protection Order (PSPO) at their meeting in Oxford Town Hall from 5pm.

It would give powers to issue fines for a number of 'anti-social' acts, including persistent begging, street drinking and busking for more than an hour in one place.

Fines of up to £1,000 could be imposed on those breaching the order.

The council had previously held a public consultation on the order, which led to the removal of rough sleeping from the actions covered.

But musicians and street performers staged protests in the city centre last month against the inclusion of busking on the order, which they claimed was too strict.

Under the order, buskers could only play for up to 60 minutes in one location, although the need for a permit would be removed.

No recommendation on whether to approve the order or not has been made by council officers ahead of the meeting.

Oxford man's story of surviving Nepal's devastating quake

A STUDENT from Oxford who was in Nepal when the earthquake struck earlier this year has spoken about the 'terrifying' experience.

James Pollard, 21, a former d'Overbroeck's College pupil and now a student at Bangor University, was in Nepal when the 7.8 magnitude earthquake devastated the country on April 25.

He had been in the Himalayas researching altitude sickness as part of a team from Bangor University, and was at a hotel in Nepal's capital Kathmandu when the quake hit three hours before he was due to fly home.

"Everyone was stunned for a couple of seconds then the hotel manager just shouted 'earthquake' and everyone instinctively ran out to the street, to get out of the building in case it came down," said James.

"It was quite terrifying – everyone was screaming and you could hear walls coming crashing down.

"We headed off to a volleyball court, which was the biggest outdoor space nearby, and there were hundreds of people just crowding in there, to stay away from the buildings."

As all flights were cancelled, James and his companions were taken to a Gurkha camp to wait for a plane out of the country, and it was there he realised the extent of the devastation.

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

He continued: "I wasn't really aware until then that it had been such a major earthquake

"It was only when we were on the way to the airport that we could see for ourselves how devastating the earthquake had been with so many buildings and temples down."

More than 8,000 people were killed as a result of the earthquake, with many more having lost their homes and possessions.

And the research team has put its future expeditions in Nepal on hold, but have said they will return to the country again.

James added: "It's obvious that Nepal will still need people to go there as the country pretty much survives on tourism, so going back there will be a way of helping the country to rebuild after the earthquake.

"I very much hope to go back there again on a future research expedition, as it was just such an amazing experience in the Himalayas."

Service's award

OXON: Oxfordshire Fire and Rescue Service has maintained its government-backed Customer Service Excellence award.

The award was given for how the organisation effectively works with the people of Oxfordshire, with the service praised for its work in customer insight, organisation culture, delivery, timeliness and quality of service.

The service also received particular praise for its use of data to profile customers and identify risks and service improvements.

Charity funding

VALE OF WHITE HORSE: The district council's chairman Mike Badcock has raised more than £3,500 in fundraising efforts for his two chosen charities over the past year.

Cllr Badcock has been raising money for the Royal British Legion and the National Eczema Society in his role as chairman.

He presented a cheque for £2,500 to the Royal British Legion last month, as well as donating £1,000 to the National Eczema Society earlier this year.

He raised the funds for the charities through a public dinner and events held by council staff such as quizzes and dress down days.

Government funding boost for Bicester

ALMOST £1.5million of government funding has been given to Bicester for the first stage of building 13,000 homes and creating 21,500 jobs under its new Garden Town status.

Last December Bicester was awarded Garden Town status by the Department for Communities and Local Government, which will see affordable housing, schools and jobs created in the town.

And last Friday Cherwell District Council announced it had been given £1.47m by the government for the first stage of the project.

Council leader Barry Wood said: "This grant and the awarding of Garden Town status does not change the plans we had for Bicester, it simply gives us the funds and capacity to deliver them sooner.

"It will enable us to ensure the jobs, infrastructure and transport provisions are delivered alongside the homes to ensure the current and future residents of Bicester are supported in all aspects of their lives."

The 13,000 houses are being delivered in two phases, with the first 10,000 due to be built at north-west Bicester, Graven Hill and south west Bicester by 2031.

The remaining 3,000 would be built after that, with the jobs and schools, as well as new transport links, being created throughout.

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director James Miller feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps.

Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service Oxfordshire from their local depots and James is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give James a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Ex-teacher who abused three young boys jailed

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

A FORMER teacher who worked at schools in Oxford and Kidlington has been jailed for five years for historic sexual offences on young boys.

John Collier, 70, of Leafield Road in Cowley, was sentenced at Oxford Crown Court last Friday for four counts of indecent assault on three boys aged between seven and 11.

The offences took place between September 1971 and July 1975 at North Kidlington Primary School, and from September 1977 to July 1978 at St Ebbes First School in Oxford, where Collier worked as a teacher.

Investigating officer Det Con Sarah Berry, from the Child Abuse Investigation Unit, said: "I am happy with the sentence handed to Collier for offences which took place more than 40 years ago.

"This case came about after a number of victims and other witnesses came to the police with information about Collier and this conviction is wholly due to their compelling evidence and bravery in coming forward.

• John Collier, 70, of Leafield Road in Cowley

"This sentencing also sends a message to offenders that your crimes are not necessarily buried in the past – you could still face a lengthy sentence."

Collier was first arrested on November 20, 2013 following reports by victims to the police, and charged with the offences on July 23 last year.

He was found guilty by a unanimous jury for three of the counts and by a majority jury for the other count on May 8 after a four-day trial.

Adrian Foster, chief crown prosecutor for Thames and Chiltern Crown Prosecution Service, said: "As a teacher, John Collier abused his position of trust and took advantage of his status to prey on young boys.

"It is only due to the great courage of the victims that the despicable behaviour of this man has been exposed.

"The emotional impact on the victims and their families of the abhorrent actions of this man is impossible to quantify.

"I hope that the conviction and sentence gives some small comfort to them."

1,000 free hours of tennis offered to city's players

WITH tennis season in full flow in the UK, Oxford City Council has announced it is opening up the city's courts for 1,000 free hours of tennis for residents to play this month.

With Queens and the Wimbledon Championships taking place during June, Oxford players gripped by tennis fever can reserve free courts online across the city.

Courts in Alexandra Park, Bury Knowle Park, Cutteslowe Park and Florence Park will be part of the promotion.

The city council is working with Oxford-based Tennis camp company Premier Tennis for the 'Great Tennis Court Giveaway'.

Courtney Warden, the city council's community sports team leader, said: "Tennis can be overlooked as a fun family activity or a healthy hobby.

"That's such a shame given the facilities on offer around the city."

Over 150 tennis players hit the court for the previous free tennis event, 'The Great British Tennis Weekend', which was held in Oxford's Florence Park last month.

Courtney added: "We want to make the courts accessible as possible to encourage lots of people to take tennis up more regularly."

Premier Tennis development manager Joe Cartledge said: "We wanted to give people even more reason to try their hand at the sport."

Eager players can reserve free courts online at parkstennis.co.uk/oxford.

Plus-size model in Miss England

By Loughlan Campbell
loughlan@taylornewspapers.co.uk

A PLUS-SIZE model with dyspraxia has won a place at the Miss England 2015 Final this August.

Shirin O'Neil, from Headington, won the nation's 'popularity queen' title ahead of 16 other girls in a contest at Leicester's Sanctuary Workshops on May 30.

The 21-year-old's success means she qualified for this year's Miss England competition.

Shirin took part in a series of interviews, walked the catwalk and took part in a photo shoot as she impressed in front of judges, which included Miss England 2014 Carina Tyrell and the competition director, Angie Beasley.

The model, a former dress size 18-20, won over the judges, who commended her on her handling of her condition and her 'determination to succeed in life'.

Miss O'Neil said after securing her place: "I'm so incredibly excited.

"My experience of education from a very early age was linked to failure, frustration and an unspoken belief that everyone else was better than me."

She continued: "I couldn't understand why it was so hard for me to complete tasks that others around me managed with what appeared to be no real effort.

"I have problems with reading, writing, concentration, memory and co-ordination which makes things like learning to drive extremely difficult and upsetting for me."

Shirin entered the competition every year since she was 17, and this is the first time she has got to the national finals.

She was also the first plus-size model to qualify and will hold her title of 'popularity queen' heading into the competition alongside Miss Oxfordshire candidate Layla Claridge and 30 other girls, who will be representing their counties from all over the UK.

The final of Miss England is set to take place at the Ricoh Arena in Coventry on August 13 and 14.

Barks of approval for de-stressing

STUDENTS at Oriel and Queen's colleges in Oxford had a 'pawesome' time as they spent the afternoon playing with guide dogs to help them de-stress and raise money for charity.

Five dogs from charity Guide Dogs UK visited Oriel College last Friday to play with students currently sitting exams, raising £770 for the charity in the process.

Jade Tinslay, disabilities and equal opportunities rep at the college, organised the event.

She said: "I'd seen that other universities had done similar schemes for de-stressing events, so I thought it was a good idea.

"We got both Oriel and Queen's colleges' students involved, the charity got lots of its guide dogs along, so it was great bringing them together."

Another similar event is scheduled to be held for students at Somerville College in Oxford tomorrow.

Brick from city's 'Berlin Wall' donated to museum

A BRICK from Oxford's version of the Berlin Wall is one of the first donations to a new exhibition at the Museum of Oxford.

Ann Spoke-Symonds was the first person to walk from one side of Cutteslowe Wall to the other after it was knocked down on March 9, 1959.

By Loughlan Campbell
loughlan@taylornewspapers.co.uk

The 89-year-old was given a brick from Oxford's equivalent to the Berlin Wall to mark the occasion, and is handing over the piece of history for the museum's 40th anniversary exhibit.

Mrs Spoke-Symonds was 23 when the two metre high wall topped with metal spikes, which divided Cutteslowe Estate council housing from private houses to the west of the estate, was demolished.

The retired historian, from Sunnymead, said: "I waited for the first of the walls to come down and then they let me go through. I was the very first person to do so.

"It was rather a political occasion when they knocked it down and I think people were vey pleased they didn't have to go around on the roads just to see their friends.

"However, some of the children liked the wall as they used to play cricket and football up against it."

After Oxford City Council bought the strips of land on which the wall stood, then-councillor Edmund Gibbs took a pickaxe to it.

Mrs Spoke-Symonds said it felt 'historical' to march from the housing estate side to the private housing side of the wall after it was hacked down.

She decided to donate the brick because her dad Peter Spokes helped found the Museum of Oxford in 1975.

To celebrate 40 years the museum, based in Oxford Town Hall, is launching an exhibition of 40 objects showcasing personal memories of the city's residents on June 20.

Museum staff are urging residents to donate their mementos of historic Oxford for the exhibition, called '40 Years, 40 Objects'.

The museum's community engagement officer, Antonia Harland-Lang, said: "This is a new way to bring the history of the city to life.

"We are excited to see what the people of Oxford will share."

Chemical leak at an Oxford laboratory

STUDENTS were evacuated from an Oxford laboratory after they noticed a chemical leak.

Two fire engines and 12 fire fighters from Oxfordshire Fire and Rescue Service attended Clarendon Laboratory in Oxford's Parks Road last Wednesday after university students noticed a 'strange noxious smell' and evacuated the labs.

Fire crews from Oxford city station along with a hazardous decontamination unit and specialist officers, attended the scene.

The crews used breathing apparatus and fans to check nobody had been overcome and left trapped in the building.

Rewley Road fire station crew manager Ben Bishop said: "We are well versed with the hazards posed by this type of incident and conduct regular visits to ensure our information and plans are kept up-to-date.

"We worked closely with staff from the university ensuring that a swift evacuation had taken place, accurate information was supplied to us quickly to enable us to establish a cordon to prevent anyone from being affected."

Incident Commander Station Manager Simon Belcher said: "This goes to show the variety of incidents that our crews attend and the good work they do."

Museum's plea to save city's 'greatest' painting

A CAMPAIGN to keep the 'greatest painting ever of Oxford' has been launched by Oxford's Ashmolean Museum.

The Ashmolean is asking for the public to help raise an extra £60,000 in order to keep JMW Turner's 'The High Street, Oxford' after raising an initial £864,000.

The painting has been a part of the museum since 1997 and has been offered in lieu of £3.5m inheritance tax.

JMW Turner's 1810 oil painting depicts Oxford's High Street and is viewed of significant importance by the museum's director, Alexander Sturgis.

Dr Sturgis said: "The importance of keeping this beautiful painting in Oxford cannot be overstated.

"The painting is the young Turner's most significant townscape and the greatest painting of the city that has ever been made."

The museum has received £550k from the Heritage Lottery Fund (HLF), a £220k grant from the Art Fund and £30k from the museum's patrons and friends from their fundraising so far.

By Loughlan Campbell
loughlan@taylornewspapers.co.uk

Stuart McLeod, head of HLF South East England, said: "It would be unthinkable for this particular painting, unique among Turner's work, not to remain on public display in the city."

Stephen Deuchar, Art Fund director, said: "This most important picture simply must be saved by the Ashmolean: we're pleased to have supported the campaign and fervently hope that anyone else who loves Turner, will now do the same."

The painting was originally commissioned by Oxford print-seller James Wyatt for 100 guineas.

If the Ashmolean cannot acquire the painting, it will be sold on the open market.

Mayor's Corner

Lynda Atkins
Mayor of Wallingford

Busy June ahead for Wallingford

WALLINGFORD is a town which always seems to have lots going on, but June this year is uncommonly busy, even by our standards.

By the time you read this, Mayor's Sunday, when the town comes together to greet the new mayor, will be over.

But we'll still be looking forward to the Blues and Beers Festival on June 12 and 13, the carnival on June 20 and our new Festival of Cycling (with an added dose of filming for Midsomer Murders) on June 21 while Rugfest takes place at the Hithercroft.

This year we'll be rounding off June with a re-enactment of the 17th Century Siege of Wallingford by the English Civil War Society during the final weekend of the month.

The common thread in all these events – apart from everyone having a thoroughly good time - is the number of volunteers involved.

That's something Wallingford is really, really good at as a community: getting out and giving something back.

It's not just events either. While June is hugely busy, there's lots of work that goes on all year round in quiet ways, from the ladies and gentlemen of our volunteer centre who offer lifts to hospital or help with shopping, and the stalwarts who run the Wallingford Club where adults with learning disabilities have the best social life around

As I start my year as Mayor of Wallingford, I am very much looking forward to celebrating all those who do give something back to the town.

FREE SUPPORT EVENT IN OXFORD FOR PEOPLE WITH TYPE 2 DIABETES

DIABETES UK will run one of a national series of free educational events to provide expert advice and information for people recently diagnosed with Type 2 diabetes in Oxford in June.

The 'Living with Diabetes Day' will be held at the Kings Centre, Osney Mead, Oxford on 11 June. The events are being held at 80 locations across the UK and it is expected that 10,000 people with Type 2 diabetes will attend them over the next two years.

The one-day events, funded by Tesco, are aimed at helping people who have been diagnosed with Type 2 diabetes in the last few years and to provide them with essential information they need to live well with condition. People who have been living with Type 2 diabetes for longer but need to brush up on their knowledge of the condition are also welcome to attend.

Type 2 diabetes is a serious, lifelong condition which can be treated with diet, exercise, medication and/or insulin.

Healthcare professionals will provide information on local healthcare and the services available to people with Type 2 diabetes in the area. They will also advise on avoiding health complications associated with diabetes, such as heart disease, kidney failure, stroke, amputation and blindness, through good management of the condition.

Experts will give workshops on the practical elements of living with Type 2 diabetes, such as diet, exercise, medication, travel and driving.

Places are limited at the Living with Diabetes Day in Oxford. Those interested in attending the event must register online at www.diabetes.org.uk/lwdd or call freephone 0345 123 2399.

Jill Steaton, Diabetes UK South East regional manager, said: "There are around 27,000 people living with Type 2 diabetes in in Oxfordshire and we know that being diagnosed with the condition can have a life-changing effect on people.

"There is a lot of information to take in, particularly at the time of diagnosis, so these events are a great way to get detailed expert advice in an easy-to-digest way, as well as being an opportunity to meet other people living with Type 2 diabetes.

"We hope the Living with Diabetes Day will give people with Type 2 diabetes in the area the information and confidence they need to live well with the condition."

There are limited places at the Living with Diabetes Day in Oxford. Those interested in attending the full day event must book a place online at www.diabetes.org.uk/lwdd or email lwdd@diabetes.org.uk or call freephone 0345 123 2399.

Puzzles

Sudoku

The objective is to fill a 9×9 grid with digits so that each column, each row, and each of the nine 3×3 sub-grids that compose the grid (also called "boxes", "blocks", "regions", or "sub-squares") contains all of the digits from 1 to 9. The puzzle setter provides a partially completed grid, which for a well-posed puzzle has a unique solution.

Care Home Open Day 19th June 2015

The Arts & Valuing Staff

FOR the third year running, Care Home Open Day will be taking place, and this year is being held on 19th June 2015, promoting the themes of The Arts and Valuing Staff.

Supported by a group of leading care providers, associations, charities and care regulators, Care Home Open Day aims to reinforce the connections care homes have across their local communities, as well as challenging misconceptions about residential care and showcasing the excellent services that are at the heart of communities across the UK.

To date, Care Home Open Day has proven to be a great success and the event is growing year-on-year, with more care homes signing up to take part each time.

Professor Martin Green OBE, chief executive of Care England, said: "Care Home Open Day is an important event to participate in. It is a great opportunity for the public to see the range of care services at the heart of their communities and for care homes to establish valuable connections."

Paul Burstow MP, commented: "Care Home Open Day is a great way of demystifying care. Many people have fears about care homes that are not based on experience. I hope more people than ever will cross the threshold of their local care home and find out what the team are doing to deliver great care."

David Cutler, Director, The Barings Foundation, stated: 'The Baring Foundation has been focusing our arts funding on work in care homes as we believe it has the power to give meaning, purpose and joy to anyone working or living there. We are delighted that this is the theme for this year's Care Home Open Day and would like to encourage everyone to get involved."

Champions are in the city

DIVERSITY will be the word when folk rock, rock, soul and alternative country group Danny and the Champions of the World arrive at The Bullingdon this Saturday, June 13.

By James Richings
jamesr@taylornewspapers.co.uk

Formed in 2007 by Daniel 'Danny' Wilson, the group have released six albums in seven years and surprisingly only one single, called 'Restless Feet', out 2010.

"I don't know which tracks we'll be performing....we will tell you when we get there," Danny joked.

"We'll do something from all the albums, maybe the odd cover, maybe a 'Grand Drive' song....we play it by ear to be honest.

"We've also been at The Bullingdon many times. The first time I ever played there was way back in the early 'Grand Drive' days in about 2000 or something.

"I remember meeting a teenage Robin Bennett at Truck Festival and Goldrush who is now in the Dreaming Spires. He was there with his dad and little did I know that years later he'd be in the very first Champs line up!

"I always love playing in Oxford."

Danny Wilson (guitar and vocals), Chris Clarke (bass), Steve Brookes (drums), Free Jazz Geoff (saxophone and keyboards), Paul Lush (guitar) and Henry Senior Jnr (pedals) form the current line up of Danny and the Champions of the World.

The group is starting a tour around the UK.

Their visit to the Cowley Road venue on Saturday will be met with a huge sigh of relief for Danny, who has endure years of patience to finally reach his goal as a full-time musician.

"I've been making records since I left school so I've never really had another 'career' as such, but I've done a million different things in between tours," he told to the Guardian.

"I have worked in a tattoo shop and a record shop before, and I've also been a postman, a road sweeper and a painter and decorator...you name it I've done it.

"The best advice comes from all over the place but I think it generally goes along the lines of 'enjoy yourself, do your best and be a good guy'."

The eccentric musician revealed why the group have chosen to cover many different genres of music.

"I love good music or what sounds good to me. There's no genre that I prefer over others," he said.

"I love anything that floats my boat and I wouldn't shy away from the influence of any genre."

The gig starts at 7pm.

South African history hits the New Theatre

FOLLOWING on from three sell-out shows at the Edinburgh Festival last year, Pietra Mello-Pittman's Inala will be at the New Theatre Oxford on June 23 and 24.

By James Richings
jamesr@taylornewspapers.co.uk

Put on by the Sisters Grimm Production Company, Inala celebrates 20 years of democracy in South Africa, with many Zulu singers and dancers taking part in the musical-dance production.

Executive producer Pietra believes that the popular production, which was performed at the Royal Variety Performance last year, believes the show will emotionally connect with the audience.

"Inala means abundance of goodwill in Zulu," Pietra said.

"The songs in Inala are sung in Zulu and they tell stories of South African culture with themes that everyone can relate to like friendship, romance, love, jealousy, work, marriage and divorce."

"We also see fragments of a community life, along with the ups and the downs but we come out at the end rejoicing."

One notable feature about Inala is the inclusion of the very popular South African all male choral group Ladysmith Black Mambazo.

The group, which formed in 1960, first came to the public eye after featuring on Paul Simon's 1986 album 'Graceland'.

This catapulted the group to mainstream popularity, leading to the African musicians winning four Grammy Awards in their career.

"Ladysmith Black Mambazo don't just sing in their concerts, but they also dance a very intricately choreographed Zulu dance style called Isicathamiya, which is a mix of high kicks and soft rhythmical tap steps done very lightly on the balls of the toes," Pietra added.

Pietra also revealed her inspiration to create the show.

She continued: "My friend, business partner and composer Ella Spira took me to see a Ladysmith Black Mambazo concert in 2009 and we were both so inspired to create a visual spectacle with them.

"They represent a culture that we here in the UK aren't perhaps so familiar with, and we wanted to show that culture off in a new way.

"We both love mixing disciplines and are particularly interested in finding contemporary ways of bringing cultural traditions into the modern day through theatrical artistic productions."

Both shows at the George Street theatre start at 7.30pm.

• Pietra Mello-Pittman's show Inala will be at the Oxford Playhouse on June 23 and 24.

Elvis back in TROUBLE in Benson

AFTER the success at Didcot Civic Hall, Trouble are once again performing their Authentic Elvis Show in association with Tamara Anthony Events at Benson Parish Hall.

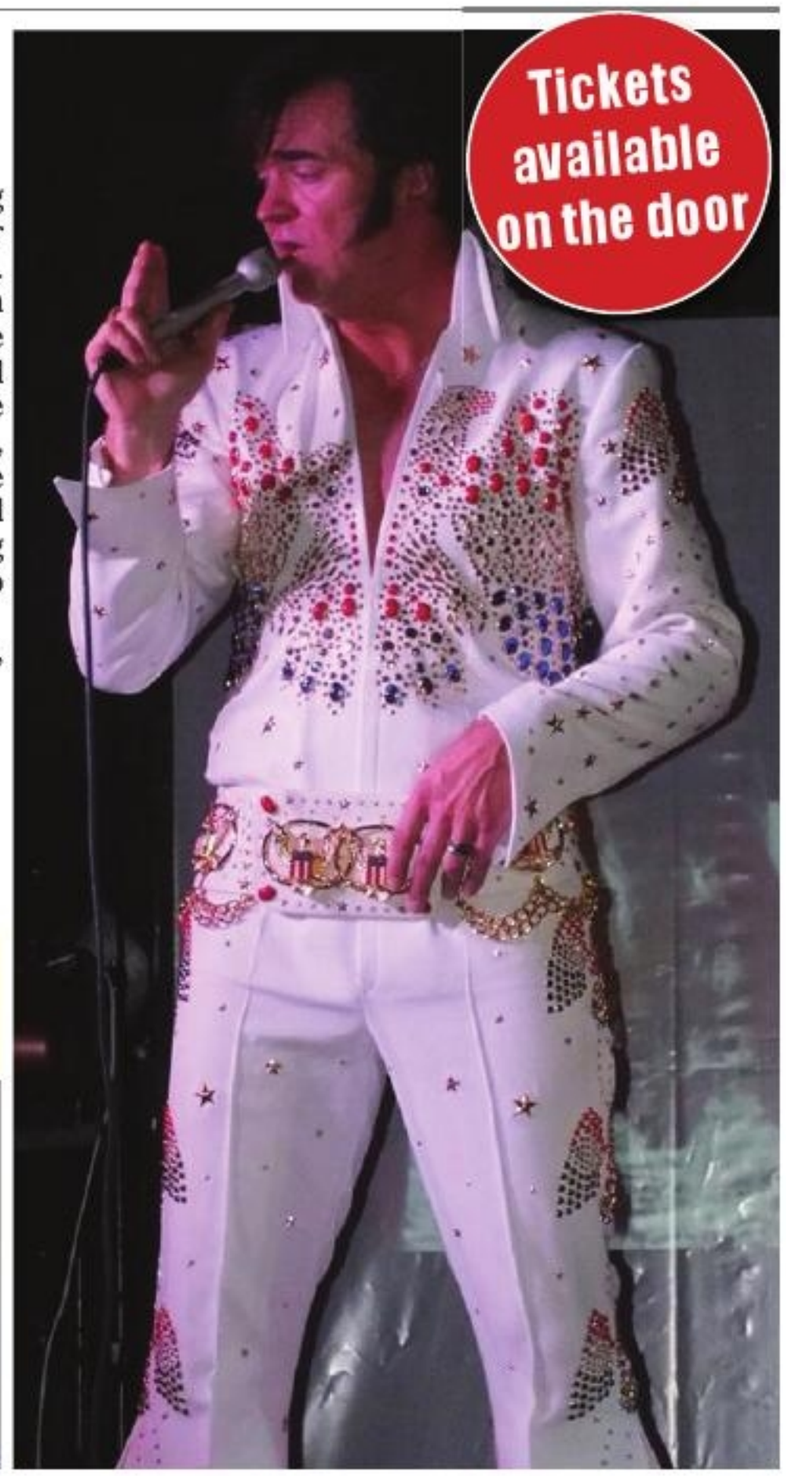
This year marks the 80th Birthday of Elvis Presley, The King of Rock & Roll, and it's hard to believe that 2017 marks the 40th anniversary of his death. TROUBLE, a 6 piece professional band, formed in 2014 with the desire to provide an Authentic 3 hour Elvis show for fans, covering the 3 main eras of his career. The show begins with the Rock & Roll songs, including hits such as That's alright Mama, Treat me nice, Hound Dog and Devil in disguise. After a short break, it's straight into the "68 comeback special" with the leather outfit performing "One Night With You" and ending with "If I Can Dream," one of Elvis' personal favourites. The final session of the show is a two costume performance of the career defining Las Vegas shows, with all the favourites including "Suspicious Minds" and the amazing "American Trilogy" some of the best known performances.

TROUBLE's Band members aim to create an authentic show and believe they have; with microphone changes including the rare Vegas Electro-Voice RE15, Elvis' favourite performance mic and the iconic Shure 55 for the Rock & Roll set. This includes guitar changes and drum builds to define the musical progression throughout Elvis' career. Authentic costumes have been crafted by original designers of the King's outfits, giving the final authenticity that the band hoped for.

Projected imagery & amazing lighting make it hard to stay in your seat and not sing along or dance. Amazing reviews of performances can be found on Facebook, "Seen Trouble this evening, Elvis was amazing and the band were great", "Due to my age I wasn't alive to see the king perform, I have now," as well as reviews by the press as "a polished, professional and passionate performance" culminating into the opportunity to get a photo with the lead singer of the band.

A fantastic way to spend an evening, sure to be a hit with the Elvis fans.

Come along to see TROUBLE performing at Benson Parish Hall, Benson on 26th June. Doors open at 6:30pm and the show starts at 7:30pm.



Tickets £15.00 each or £125.00 for a table of 10.

Jazz trio in Summertown

SOME of the world's finest musicians are discovered in unusual places.

Justin Bieber was discovered via YouTube, Matt Monroe was dubbed the 'singing bus driver' and jazz singer Catherine Sykes was discovered by her music teacher mother at their house in Yorkshire.

And it will be the latter who will be performing as part of a trio in Oxford on June 21, alongside bassist Paul Jeffries and pianist Alex Steele.

"I'm very lucky in the fact that I get to do something I love as a job," said Catherine.

"In fact it doesn't really feel like a job.

"On the day, I will be singing standards and songs from the Great American Songbook. I enjoy singing good show tunes in a jazz style which include songs like 'If I were a Bell' and 'Lullaby of Broadway'.

"And I think it's important to let the audience hear the tune that was written when performing them, so I think the crowd can expect to hear some songs they'll recognise."

A member of the very famous Glenn Miller Orchestra, the popular jazz singer sites Ella Fitzgerald, Doris Day and Julie London as her main influences, which has helped Catherine become one of the finest jazz performers in the country.

By James Richings
jamesr@taylornewspapers.co.uk

After graduating from the Leeds College of Music, the entertainer has since travelled the globe far and wide to perform in a number of five star hotels, leading Catherine to release two albums.

Her debut album 'Signing In' was featured on Humphrey Lyttleton's 'Best of Jazz' programme on BBC Radio 2, with her second album 'Something Wonderful' also receiving positive feedback from critics.

"One of the best things when performing is that when an audience is enjoying a gig, you feed off them and perform better," she said.

"An unfortunate fact is that a lot of performers are very insecure and are often worried that they are not performing to their best, or that the audience is not enjoying it.

"As soon as you feel warmth from the crowd, you tend to relax and as a result perform better.

• Catherine Sykes in action

"The joy is infectious on both sides and the gig seems to get better and better.

"And since the gig is on the June 21, perhaps they'll hear a couple of tributes to dads for Father's Day too."

The free gig starts at 6.30pm at the Oxford Wine Cafe in Summertown.

Cadbury Sisters

JESSICA, Mary and Lucy, also known as The Cadbury Sisters, will be at Fat Lils Bar and Grill in Witney, this evening, June 11.

The trio, who are originally from Bristol, are currently on a tour of the UK and will perform tracks off their latest EP.

The show starts at 7.30pm.

The Young 'Uns

BAND, storytellers and workshop hosts The Young 'Uns will be at the Cornerstone Arts Centre in Didcot tomorrow evening, Friday, June 12.

The trio, who released their fifth album this year, have performed with Billy Bragg and were named as the best group at the 2015 BBC Radio 2 Folk Awards.

The gig starts at 8pm at the Station Road venue.

The Moody Blues

ROCK band legends The Moody Blues will be at the New Theatre Oxford on Sunday, June 14.

SUNFLOWERS & OTHER SOUNDS
"Brilliant young chamber orchestra, Project Instrumental, make their JdP Series debut and bring its spring season to a close, igniting a typically imaginative programme of the never heard before, the rarely heard and the preferably heard.
A concert for those who prefer their classical music experiences enlivening and colourful, Sunflowers & Other Sounds balances two of the most exciting voices writing music today, alongside two pre-eminences in the history of Western classical music. The world premieres of Fokkens' neo concerto grosso-like work for string trio and string orchestra and Cutler's new arrangement of his Music for Sunflowers for solo viola and string orchestra are bookended with Shostakovich's youthful, avant-gardist Prelude & Scherzo for string octet and Tchaikovsky's perennially soaring Serenade for Strings.
Recently described as "simply knockout", Project Instrumental brings thrilling performances to unbounded audiences. Bold, imaginative and boundary defying, this virtuosic ensemble strips back the peripherals with their straightforward contemporary approach to classical music."

WHY I DON'T 'BELIEVE' IN GLOBAL WARMING

"Human-caused global warming has been making headlines for over two decades, but people's opinions on it often depend on what headlines they're reading. How is it that a scientific theory has become so politicised? BMW lifts the lid on new XI

BMW'S new X1 is bigger, lighter and cheaper to run than its predecessor – and soon you can decide if it is better to drive.

REVIEW: New BMW XI

By James Richings

The 2015 model is out this Autumn.

So customers have been given a teaser of what's to come.

The first photos are out and the specifications published.

The one thing we are waiting for now is a price tag – other than that all-important first drive.

Since it launched full-throttle onto the car scene in 2009, BMW's X1 compact Sports Activity Vehicle has sold more than 730,000 vehicles over the world – of which nearly 40,000 were to UK customers.

Now for a closer look at its appearance.

It has robust proportions and sculpted bodywork, and the front of the new X1 is defined by the large, upright BMW kidney grille, three-section lower air intake and characteristic "four-eyed" look formed by the twin circular head lights and fog lamps.

Standard specification includes LED daytime driving lights and for Xline and M Sport models, with full-LED headlights for low and high beam. This is optional for Sport line models.

The new car has grown most notably in height compared to its predecessor, as the latest vehicle has expanded by an extra 53mm, creating extra space inside.

From the side the window surfaces taper towards the rear forming a dynamic appearance, and a central section rises up significantly, mimicking the frontal styling.

Customers will be able to choose from two non-metallic and 11 metallic exterior paint finishes, while the Estoril Blue metallic shade is also offered exclusively for the M Sport model.

A look inside the new X1 shows flat surfaces of the instrument panel and centre console controls are angled towards the driver.

The controls located in the lower section are surrounded by high-spec surfaces separated from the front passenger side by a newly designed bar.

Standard specification in the UK for the new BMW X1 includes cloth seat surfaces in the colour combination anthracite/black, and interior trim strips in oxide, silver dark matt with accent strips in high-gloss black.

Dakota leather trim in Black or 'Canberra beige' can be ordered as options, along with interior trim strips in fine-wood matt oak grain and fine-line stream.

One petrol engine and three diesel options will be on offer.

The new BMW X1, will be available to buy on October 24 this year.

City star forward's Mansfield move 'like a dream come true'

FORMER Oxford City star has called his move from the Conference South club to League Two hotshots Mansfield Town as "like a dream come true".

Forward Adi Yussuf signed for the Nottinghamshire-based club on a free transfer last Friday after being City's leading star from last season, netting 26 goals in the 2014/15 campaign.

The move sees 23-year-old Yussuf jump up two divisions into the football league, and the Tanzanian-born striker is looking to cause a stir after a handful of years which has seen him fall through the leagues, despite graduating from Leicester City's academy in 2011.

Yussuf said after securing the move: "When I got told that I might be coming to sign here, I pinched myself every day. It's like a dream come true.

He added: "I'm just so happy everything is getting sorted. I want to say thanks to the gaffer for giving me such a big chance.

"There's no way I would have dreamt of something like this at this time last year."

By Loughlan Campbell
loughlan@taylornewspapers.co.uk

Yussuf is proclaimed by his new club as 'undoubtedly one of the star players in the Conference North' last season, and new manager Adam Murray was full of praise for his new signing.

Murray said: "We are delighted to have captured Adi. We have had our eye on him for a while. He is somebody who has some tremendous attributes and will add another dimension to our attack.

"He is hungry, eager to prove a point and I cannot wait to work with him."

Yussuf signed for Burton Albion following a successful trial period in August 2011 notching two goals in two seasons before he signed on for Lincoln City in 2013, which saw him have spells at Gainsborough Trinity, Harrogate Town and Histon FC all on loan in the 2013/14 season.

He signed on for City last August on only a one-year deal with the club and leaves after taking them to a sixth-place finish last season.

Oxford earn fourth win

OXFORD RL broke club records after their 38-30 win over South Wales Scorpions on Sunday meant that they had secured a fourth successive home victory.

The Blues' home resurgence has led them to rise up the table to a respectable ninth after they secured eight points from four games at Iffley Road.

Ian Newbury crossed for the scorpions after just three minutes with Paul Emanuelli nailing the conversion before Oxford's Josh Scott hit back and Louis Richard added the extras.

Scorpions' Andy Joy broke through to add a second for the visitors with the conversion a success, before Oxford turned up the heat as Andy Matthews crossed twice with Richards converting twice.

Matthews went on to complete his Oxford hat-trick but Richard's kick hit a post and the visitors moved to 30-22 through Newbury.

Emanuelli converted before Oxford roared back into the game as Luke Evans and Matty Blythe dived over with Richards converting Evans' try.

Oxford sealed the win when Danny Thomas secured a late try and Richards' kick sealed the points for the home side.

Oxford University star has England backing

A UNIVERSITY of Oxford cricket star has received the backing of an England international after being named young cricketer of the year.

England all-rounder Moeen Ali has given advice to Tom Kohler-Cadmore to put his early season troubles to the back of his mind.

The 20-year-old Malvern College pupil has achieved a batting average just under-23 and is yet to hit a first-class century despite being named 2014 Young Cricketer of the Year by Wisden Schools.

Kohler-Cadmore hit 1,409 runs for Malvern College last season and Ali is backing him to be a part of the professional game for a long time.

Ali said: "Kohler-Cadmore is a good, young player to have in the side.

"He's probably struggled a little bit early this season but that can happen to anybody.

"He's going to score a lot of runs for Worcester and he has go so much potential to improve on.

Ali believes the capacity is there for the Oxford pupil to really become a force with the Worcestershire side and said his teammate 'can add the quality to get them over the line.'

Welsh coach runs to raise charity funds

By Loughlan Campbell
loughlan@taylornewspapers.co.uk

A LONDON Welsh community coach ran the Edinburgh marathon to raise money for charity after his younger sister was diagnosed with a rare, life-threatening disease.

Nat McDonald raised £2,691 for running 26 miles around Edinburgh last month for Cardiac Risk in the Young (CRY) to raise money for sister Lois, who was diagnosed with a rare genetic heart condition called Brugada Syndrome.

The syndrome occurs when a ventricular fibrillation (a lethal arrhythmia) in the heart can cause a very sudden death.

The syndrome is also often the cause for Sudden Death Syndrome (SDS) and Nat believes that it's something that people need to be more aware about.

Nat said: "My father has also been a sufferer of heart conditions within the last decade and my late grandfather passed away last year from a heart attack.

"All I really wanted to do is raise some money and awareness for all heart conditions but more specifically Brugada Syndrome."

The 24-year-old also had to undergo a precautionary heart operation due to a medical black out where he lost consciousness, which will require another operation in the future and was also diagnosed with a Bicuspid Aortic valve - a structural defect of the heart.

Nat added: "While this sums up the heart conditions my family have faced in the last six years it barely touches some of the difficulties my family has had to deal with."

Nat was on target to finish the marathon in four hours and 10 minutes but just a few miles before the finish line he suffered hip problems, and was joined by his dad coming out to walk the last mile with him, for a 5hr 10mins finishing time.

He said: "It was great that my dad came out to walk the last mile with me, he could see I was in a lot of pain, but we got it done."

London Welsh said they were very proud of Nat's feat.

Super double victory for veteran Plato

JASON Plato displayed a masterclass in touring car racing as he secured two first-place finishes at Oulton Park circuit at the weekend.

Plato's 91st and 92nd series victories were followed by a fifth place finish in race three which takes him to first in the British Touring Car Championship with 157 points.

The Team BMR driver secured a pole position for race one and commanded the track with complete precision and speed as he fought off rival driver Honda Yuasa Racing's Gordon Shedden through the whole race.

Race two's pole was also secured in immaculate fashion and Plato became the first driver to win twice in a weekend with 75kg of ballast on board this season.

Plato held his lead from the start but Shedden came roaring back in the final lap, though the Oxford driver held on for his second win of the weekend.

The 47-year-old's run with the Dunlop soft tyres in race three led to a fifth place finish, and Plato now commands a three-point championship lead over rival Shedden.

The championship leader said after the races: "I love this place.

"We had real confidence after out test here, we've got the car where we want it and when you're in the groove with the car and circuit, it makes the job a whole lot easier."

O'Dowda shines as Hodgson watches on

• Oxford United winger Callum O'Dowda, 20, takes on England U-21 players Danny Ings and Will Hughes

OXFORD United's promising winger Callum O'Dowda enjoyed his week away with the Republic of Ireland under-21 as he started both games for his county in friendlies against the England C and U-21 side.

O'Dowda played 70 minutes in Ireland's 2-1 defeat in the game against England C in Galway before playing the full 90 in a behind closed doors friendly 3-1 defeat against the England U-21 side at St George's Park.

O'Dowda put in an impressive shift against the England youngsters on Friday's game as his looping header in the first half just went over the bar.

The young winger continued his good form into the second half and Ireland pulled a goal back after O'Dowda sent in a deep cross that was met on the volley by Sean Long.

England manager Roy Hodgson and the senior England side also watched the 20-year old in the entertaining contest.

O'Dowda said: "It was a good few days and another fantastic experience to be involved in the games.

"We worked very hard in the second game and I really enjoyed it. It would be great to be involved again when the next squad is announced."

Chapman steers himself to points at Oulton Park

OXFORD'S 15-year-old motor racing talent Matt Chapman secured another two vital points in the Ginetta Junior Championship's fourth event at the Oulton Park Island Circuit on Sunday.

Chapman secured a best finish of seventh in his first race which equalled his season-best finish.

The Oxford racer had steered his Ginnetta G40 to a top-eight finish in the earlier seventh race as he bids to enter the championship top-10.

Chapman lapped second fastest overall during testing on Friday and placed in the top-10 during practice on Saturday morning, securing a third row start by qualifying in fifth.

The Total Control Racing driver had a bad start in the first race as he dropped to 10th shortly after the start before pushing himself into eighth, which he held on to throughout the race.

Chapman started race two in eighth and fought to secure a seventh place finish against rival drivers edging him wide.

The youngster said: "It was a real fight in the first race to just try and get through and make up places.

"Race two was solid; I actually got a pretty good start but got hung out to dry outside the first corner.

"Overall, it's been a strong weekend and there were some good battles out there."

Matt Chapman is in 11th position in the championship standings after Sunday's races.

Oxford lose controversially in tense Horspath thriller

OXFORD were narrowly beaten by a single wicket in an enthralling encounter with rivals Horspath at Roman Way.

The encounter was a heated contest between the teams at the bottom of Division 1 and after Oxford hit 198-8, Horspath needed 11 runs to win with tickets left in the final over.

However, the umpires then caused controversy after they ruled that Oxford had failed to bowl their 50 overs in the allotted time of three hours and 20 minutes, handing over six penalty runs to Horspath from the ends of their innings.

Oxford started well after new signing and opening batsman Ryan Carter hit a solid 38 on his debut, before Stewart Laudat knocked 60 from 78 deliveries and Sean Thornton went on to hit 52.

Horspath's Robbie Eason stroked 43 to get Horspath up and running, whilst Adam Mould knocked a reasonable 35.

Oxford spinner's Shami Mendis and Harvey Eltham caused the visitors plenty of trouble but in the final over, Pat Foster hit a four, believing Horspath had secured the win.

Although the umpires ruling that the final three balls had to be re-bowled, it confirmed Oxford's defeat, who remain bottom of the table.

Wimbledon play-off test

TENNIS: Lucy Brown, from Elsfield, is set to fight it out for a place at Wimbledon in a play-off next Thursday and Friday.

The 22-year-old is one of 16 hopefuls competing for two slots with the play-off set to take place at Wimbledon's Aorangi Park.

Brown is calling on supporters to help her succeed and has launched a public crowd funding appeal at pledgesports.org/projects/tennis-sponsorship-lucy-brown.

New United assistant

FOOTBALL: Banbury United have appointed former Didcot Town manager Stuart Peace as Mike Ford's assistant.

The ex-Oxford United player has also taken on board Matt Haycocks and Mike Byrne as coaches for his side.

Peace was responsible for the FA Vase-winning Didcot Town side in 2005 and also served as assistant at Oxford City.

United will play in the Evo-Stik League Southern Division 1 South & West this season following the relegation from the Premier Division.

Welsh's Kassam tenure to end?

RUGBY: London Welsh remained tight-lipped last night on reports that the club are 'seriously considering' leaving the Kassam Stadium.

The Exiles previously signed a three-year contract to play in Oxford in April 2014, but were relegated from the Aviva Premiership last season.

An exit from the Kassam Stadium has been previously discussed, as well as plans to redevelop Witney Town Football Club's former ground into a 10,000 capacity ground.

The club and stadium owners Firoka have so far refused to comment on the reports.

FIRST PODIUM OF 2015 FOR BOTTAS

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

VALTTERI Bottas picked up Williams Martini Racing's first podium finish of the year on Sunday, coming home third in the Canadian Grand Prix.

The Finn had started fourth after a strong performance in qualifying and held the position in the early stages of the race.

He was behind the Ferrari of Kimi Raikkonen, who pitted first but promptly spun at the hairpin on his out-lap, costing him around 12 seconds of time.

It meant that when Bottas came into the pits for his only stop, he came out in front of Raikkonen, and held on to third for the remainder of the race.

"We really maximised everything and I'm really happy for us as a team," said Bottas.

"We had the chance to change the strategy in the middle of the race and go for one stop instead of two – we knew it could be a risk but the team knew what to do and we were right.

"It's great to be back in the top three and we know there are better grands prix to come because of the updates we are bringing so I can't wait for the next few races."

Meanwhile, Bottas' team-mate Felipe Massa recovered from problems with an underpowered car in qualifying to jump up nine places and score some solid points.

Massa was forced to start 15th, but made fast progress to move up the order on the harder tyres, including a memorable battle with the Sauber of Marcus Ericsson.

And on well-used super soft tyres in the closing stages of the race, he was able to overtake Pastor Maldonado's Lotus to finish in sixth place.

Massa said: "After a challenging qualifying, I'm happy with how the race has gone and I've picked up some good points.

"Starting 15th was always going to lead to a busy race and there was a lot of great overtaking and the car had good consistent pace.

"I could have been fighting for podiums, but all in all this has been a very positive weekend for the team and we should be very competitive in the next few races."

Bottas and Massa stay fifth and sixth respectively in the drivers' world championship standings, with 57 and 47 points.

Williams are third in the constructors' standings with 104 points behind Ferrari and reigning champions, Brackley-based Mercedes.

The next race is at the famous Red Bull Ring in Spielberg, Austria on June 21.
